

“Sustainable small islands”

Continue, consolidate, extend

On March 23, on the occasion of Monaco Ocean Week 2022, SMILO, the Conservatoire du littoral and the French Fund for the Global Environment will present the "Sustainable small islands" initiative carried out for 5 years. This event will be an opportunity to present lessons learned and discuss opportunities to consolidate and develop the initiative for the sustainable management and protection of the biodiversity of small islands around the world.

9:00-10:00 AM, Yacht Club, Monaco

Session opening (10 minutes)

- From an initiative to an international organisation, Maxime Prodromides, President of SMILO
- Restitution of the project evaluation: main achievements and lessons learned, Laurent Boutot, LBE Office

#1_A label and concrete actions led by insular communities (20 minutes)

- Why a Label? Fabrice Bernard, Europe and International Delegate of the Conservatoire du littoral
- A driving force approach in the Philippines, Frédéric Tardieu, President of the Sulubaa'i Foundation

#2_Sustainable islands at the service of biodiversity (20 minutes)

- The challenges of biodiversity conservation on islands around the world, Nicolas Imbert, Executive Director of Green Cross France and Territories
- Loyalty Islands, Jacques Lallié, President of the Islands Province, and Émile Mene, Secretary General of the Islands Province

To go further... (10 minutes)

- Constance Corbier, Biodiversity project manager at the French Fund for the Global Environment

...and opening to make the link with the next workshop, organised by the Galapagos Conservation Trust “Rebalancing the Scales for Ocean Protection in Galapagos and the Eastern Tropical Pacific”

Discussing the scientific and advocacy efforts behind the new marine protected areas in the Eastern Tropical Pacific, and exploring the innovative tools needed for effective management of pollution and overfishing to build resilience to adverse climate impacts. (10:00 – 11:00 AM, Yacht Club)